Ship Disaster Survivors Say Crew Panics

Total of Missing May Be Only 77, Reports Indicate

FUNCHAL, Madeira (AP) — Some survivors of the Lakonia cruise ship disaster charged on arrival in port here today that the Greek Line crew panicked, discipline cracked and that passengers had to take charge of the lifeboats.

There was praise, however, for the Argentine rescue ship Salta, which docked here with 475 survivors — 307 passengers and 168 crew members.

With 24 persons known dead among the 1,036 passengers and crew members, there were reports to the British Admiralty and the Greek Line in London that the list of 135 missing might be further reduced.

A radio message to the Admiralty from Casablanca said the rescued would total 935. If true, that would mean a reduction in the missing to 77.

The stricken Lakonia, which caught fire shortly before midnight Sunday, was still burning 180 miles north of Madeira. She was listing to starboard and her stern was lowering ominously.

Ships and planes still searched the area around the hulk, but the Admiralty said it was unlikely any survivors were left in the Atlantic waters.

Five survivors, an American couple and three Britons, told the same story of the disastrous night.

Ivan Buchanan, of Atlanta, Ga., who has been living in England, said:

"I am going to take it up with my lawyer, it was a terrible shock, the crew was horrible." Survivors said they thought the fire started in the Lakonia's barber shop.

Mr. and Mrs. M.R. Lovat of London said the fire was detected around 11 p.m. while a party was going on in the public lounge.

Sewer District Creation Approved by Commission

A resolution authorizing the establishment of a sanitary sewer district in Circleville Twp. south of here was adopted yesterday by the Pickaway County Board of Commissioners.

The sewer district will enclose two tracts of land, comprising approximately 318.76 acres. One tract is owned by the Miller Development Co., a subsidiary of South-Central Rural Electric Cooperative, and the other by the Wacker Development Co. of Lancaster.

The proposed sewer district area is about 1½ miles south of Circleville. The Miller land, about 200 acres, is on the east side of Route 23. The Wacker tract, better than 100 acres is on the west side of the highway.

According to the enacted resolution, the new district will be known as Sanitary Sewer District No. 3. Authority for its creation is listed under section 6117.01 and related sections of the Ohio Revised Code.

Manpower Center Dedication Set

JACKSON, Ohio (AP)—A new manpower training center and technical school, designed to retrain jobless workers, will be dedicated here Jan. 6 by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The center, in the former Interlake Iron Co. office building is to be ready on that date to accommodate five classes for 80 students. Sixteen additional classes are expected to begin sometime later in the month or in early February.

Classes will include training for nurses aides, clerk-typists and clerk-stenographers. The school will be operated under a $1.6 million federal grant of the Job Retraining Program.

the Ohio Revised Code.

INITIAL development plans by the Miller firm calls for construction for 48 homes bordering along the east side of Route 23. Gail W. Wacker and David R. W. Carruthers, incorporators of Pickaway Motel Corp., already have announced plans for construction of a 50-unit Quality Courts Motel on the Wacker land. An additional 60 units have been planned for the future, along with a service station in the same area.

The motel construction is scheduled to start in January. Completion date has been set for this June.

The two development companies jointly sought establishment of the sewer district. Representatives of the Miller firm met twice with county commissioners prior to yesterday's legislation.

The letter provided that the county will supervise construction of the plan, then accept the facility for operation and maintenance after it has met all State Board of Health requirements and county standards. Acceptance is expected to come after the plan has been in satisfactory operation for one year.

A VOTE on the sewer district resolution drew affirmative nods from all three commissioners.

In other business yesterday and today, the board devoted considerable time and study on proposed county departmental budgets for 1964.

The break was on Nicholas Drive just north of Avon Drive. The difficulty was discovered about midnight.

Water in the area was turned off completely at about 2:30 a. m. to allow for repairs to start. Frozen ground and ice tight equipment and gear handicapped the initial operations.

Ervin Leist, public utilities manager, said last night's break was the third in that general area in the past few years. Leist said water in the area is now back on and flowing although it may have a rusty appearance. He said a flushing of pipes is due.

UN Children's Fund Sells 13 Million Cards UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Children's Fund sold a record number of 13 million greeting cards in the United States for the 1963 season. The cards and 175,000 calendars brought a gross income of $2.2 million, an increase of 22.2 per cent over last year. The figures were reported by the U.S. Committee for UNICEF.

The National Safety Council figured that almost all the nation's 79 million cars will be on the streets or roads sometime during the midweek holiday and will roll up a total of more than 2 billion miles between 6 p.m. Tuesday and midnight Wednesday.

During that period, the council estimates, between 200 and 250 persons might die in traffic accidents. The council said studies of past Christmas holidays show more than half the drivers involved in fatal crashes had been drinking.

Ohio Assured Christmas Day To Be White

No Bitter, Foul Weather Expected In Buckeye Area

A white Christmas is assured for the Buckeye State. The sky may be a little cloudy and there may be a few snow flurries but no bitter foul winter weather is expected. Temperatures Wednesday should be in the 20s and 30s.

Ohioans awoke this Christmas Eve morning to as much as a half-foot blanket of snow covering the Buckeye State. And with today's high temperatures forecast to barely reached the 32 degree melting point a white Christmas seemed a certainty.

The storm responsible for the snow had moved out of Ohio by early today with only the area around Belleaire on the Ohio River reporting a few flurries.

But in its wake the storm left at least one person dead. In front which had a six-inch blanket a 66-year-old woman Bertha Johnson died of an apparent heart attack Monday while shoveling snow.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Columbus said that by 1 a.m. today total accumulations on the ground ranged from three inches at Toledo and Cincinnati to seven inches at Youngstown.

Other total accumulations reported by the Weather Bureau were: Akron Cleveland and Columbus four inches Dayton and Marietta five inches and Chesapeake and Zanesville six inches.

The storm was the same one responsible for the heavy snow falls in the Deep South Sunday. After leaving Ohio the storm moved on to hammer most of the northern half of the Atlantic coastal region and other eastern areas.

Johnson Gets Long Memo Of Advice from Gen. Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, in some personal revelations of life as chief executive, reports he got advice and suggestions in a long memo from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Leading another of his impromptu and expansive goodwill tours of the White House Monday night, Johnson told a four-some of women reporters, that Eisenhower sat down for 2½ hours the day after John F. Kennedy's assassination to help Johnson with his ideas.

He said Eisenhower wrote in longhand on sheets of long yellow legal pad paper and then dictated in the Executive Office Building after having paid his respects with top officials who came to view Kennedy's coffin in the East Room of the White House.

"Some things I said to the joint session (of Congress) he suggested," Johnson said. In a Christmas party mode.

after entertaining members of Congress at the White House Monday night, Johnson called back the four reporters to pose for pictures with him and his wife on a curving marble staircase and then launched them on a 45-minute tour. It went through the Flower Room the swimming pool where he said he tries to take twice-daily dips and his oval office where he said the president is called on to sign some 700 documents a day.

Although he said he had only one hour's sleep the night before mulling over problems of his office and had missed lunch except for a glass of diet drink Johnson declared "I never felt better in my life."

He said he has trimmed down from 226 pounds to 205 and felt he was in "perfect condition"

Johnson, walking from the formal rooms of the White House back to his office in the west wing, took the reporters along, pausing to show them sights along the way and carrying much chit-chat about his new life and his philosophy of the office. Many of his remarks he placed "off the record."

Johnson ended his impromptu and friendly discourse by sitting down at his office desk and autographing pictures of his family for the four reporters—Isabelle Shelton of the Washington Evening Star, Dorothy McCordle of the Washington Post radio-TV news writer Hazel Markel and Frances Lewing of The Associated Press.

Pilgrims Pray At Manger In Bethlehem

Peace of World Is Shaken by Trouble Spots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a scene of peace and devotion as thousands of pilgrims flocked to the grotto of Christ's birth in Bethlehem today as Christians prepared to celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Christians will observe the Nativity with midnight religious services, family reunions and feasts. Pope Paul VI in his first Christmas message pleaded for peace and unity on earth.

But scattered around the world were stark reminders of the differences that divide mankind—war in South Viet Nam, communal shooting in Cyprus, U.S. troops on patrol on the bleak, freezing hills dividing North and South Korea, the Communist wall through Berlin.

Thousands of pilgrims from around the world flocked to Bethlehem. Two hundred Jordanian police were assigned to special duty with army desert troops to preserve order—and to enforce a recent peace agreement among Christian denominations whose bickering over the 1,600-year-old Church of the Nativity has upset Christmas processions in the past.

In Berlin, Communists were allowing West Berliners to cross into East Berlin for Christmas-time family reunions for the first time since they built their hated wall in August 1961.

Thousands, clutching gaily-wrapped gifts, have crossed over for fearful one-day reunions since last Friday. The agreement ends Jan. 5.

"We have no daddy," they explained. "We just did what we always did in Kentucky—go out and cut one down."

Swaboda left the tree along with wishes for a Merry Christmas.

Yule Traffic Toll Starts To Build Up

All this I didn't know back when I got a life sentence. I had to teach it to myself in prison.

(When Honeck entered Joliet Ill., Penitentiary, William McKinley was President of the United States.)

In 1897, I had taken a train to California—it was a long ride 3½ days or more—and got a job as railroad telegrapher at Anaheim. I worked myself up to assistant station agent in a year. Then one day a tall young man walked in, said, "Get out or I'll throw you out." And my job ended there. Why I don't know. Then it happened.

(That's all Honeck will ever say about the murder of a former school teacher, a young man named Walter Koeller, with whom he had quarreled.)

I was in complete disgrace. I saw no way out. My young life and future were gone.

I was in a very unhappy frame of mind until around 1913.

(That stint of Honeck's prison life spanned Carrie Nation's hatchet raid or saloons the first automobile trip across the United States; the Wright brothers' flight, the first transcontinental plane flight.)

For the next five years I had to become combative with my own self. I made a mental re-

Ice Covered Roads Cause Two Accidents

Icy road conditions were listed as the cause of an accident on Route 104 yesterday shortly after 8 p. m. in which three persons received injuries and the two cars involved were demolished.

Ira Lee Morrison, 27, Clarksburg, lost control of his car which skidded into the path of an auto driven by Ernest R. Music, 21, of Lima.

Music told investigating officers from the Pickaway County Sheriff's department his car was unable to avoid striking Morrison's because of the slippery roads.

Taken to Berger Hospital for medical treatment was Nancy Music of Lima, who had a laceration of the left thigh and abrasions.

ADA MORRISON, 44, Clarksburg, was treated for chest injuries at the Berger Hospital emergency room. Both were released.

The accident was investigated by Deputies William Pontious and Robert Featheringham.

A second mishap occurring on Pontious Road one mile east of Route 188 was also caused by slippery conditions.

Mansil L. Hurlbut, 16, Knollwood Village, received a slight laceration of the head and a bruised throat. He was referred to a doctor for treatment by Deputy Gene Kerns.

Extensive damage resulted to the front of the auto Hurlbut was driving. A mailbox was knocked down.

No citations were issued in either accident.

The snow followed by sleet and freezing rain in many Eastern areas was blamed for at least 15 deaths mostly in traffic accidents on icy and snow-covered highways exposure from cold and heart attacks induced by over-exertion.

Cold air dipped deep into parts of the Southland notably across the snow covered regions in Tennessee and Kentucky. The mercury plunged to 12 below zero in Memphis, Tenn. a record low for the city which is covered by 15 inches of snow the heaviest amount of the century.

Highway travel in the South was extremely dangerous on ice-covered highways. State troopers allowed only vehicles with snow tires and chains to travel on highways between Alabama and Tennessee, north Georgia and north Mississippi.

A white Christmas was assured for vast areas in the eastern two-thirds of the nation.

The snow after whipping across the South and Midwest sections Sunday swept northward along the Atlantic Coast into New England and inward to the eastern Great Lakes region.

The six-inch snowfall at the National Airport in Washington was the heaviest since Feb. 8 1961. Government workers were dismissed two hours early because of the storm. In many other cities workers in government offices and business firms also were allowed to go home early.

Generally clear weather was reported from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Coast. Temperatures generally moderated to seasonal levels in most of the area.

passed and sent to the Senate today a compromise $3-billion foreign-aid appropriation bill giving the President authority to guarantee credit for private wheat sales to Russia.

The roll-call vote that ended a long weekend of bickering over the bill was 189 to 158.

It was a victory for President Johnson and a defeat for House Republicans who twice had beaten the proposal.

It came during the first Christmas Eve business session in modern congressional history—a session that convened at 7 a. m.

The action cleared the way for a general exodus of members for a recess until the next session on Jan. 7.

The Senate was expected to pass the foreign-aid money bill Friday. It was in session today but with an agreement that no business be transacted.

The House will hold at least one perfunctory meeting later to complete action on a sine die adjournment resolution. Final adjournment tentatively has been set for next Monday, but no legislation remains to be acted on by the House this year.

The authority given the President to negotiate sales of wheat or other products to Communist nations would, in effect, take the risk out of private loans. It would allow the President, if he determines it to be in the national interest, to use Export-Import Bank finances to guarantee the loans. He would have to report any transactions to Congress within a month after they are made.

Man Tells . . .

(In the process, prison officials moved him, about 1915, to Chester State Hospital—the year the first transcontinental telephone call was made from New York to San Francisco.)

I wrestled with myself in my mind as I sat in my cell or as I worked. I began slicing bread when I was at the Chester hospital.

I kept up with the world's progress in a way. I read a few newspapers. And when radio came (the first scheduled broadcasting was in 1919) I listened some. But mostly I just thought things out for myself.

Prison taught me many disciplines—such as how to eat as my body needs. People overeat.

(His niece, Mrs. Clara Orth, interposed that now when all sorts of dishes are set before him, Honeck eats sparingly and refuses second helpings. He's very alert, stands erect and reads without glasses.)

I'm going to keep in touch with Warden Ross Randolph at Menard. He's one of the finest men I ever knew. (Honeck was transferred to Menard after 16 years at Chester State Hospital.)

Well, I'd better get back to reading up on my mail. Merry Christmas to you. I just wish people everywhere could be as happy this day as I am.

Although the amount of foreign aid approved—$3 billion—was $100 million less than the amount Johnson said would be a safe minimum, administration forces counted the outcome a victory because the President won the authority to permit the credit guarantee.

In pleading for this authority, Johnson had said he wanted it before Congress adjourned.

The House twice refused to grant it, once when it passed the bill originally Dec. 16 and again last Saturday when it turned down a compromise containing a provision conditioning the authority on a presidential finding that the national interest required its use. The Senate originally rejected the House bill.

On both occasions, the House action was instigated by Republicans and accomplished by the votes of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

A second try at a compromise was blocked last Saturday when absenteeism prevented a Rules Committee meeting to lay the ground rules for House consideration.

The third attempt was made Monday under procedure requiring a two-thirds vote for success. It fell two votes short of that number: It had the support of all 195 Democrats present and 7 Republicans and the opposition of 135 Republicans.

JFK Estate Goes to His Widow, Tots

BOSTON (AP) — The will of assassinated President John F. Kennedy names his widow, Jacqueline, and their children as primary beneficiaries.

The will, on file today in Suffolk County Probate Court, gave no estimate of the size of the estate.

The document was signed June 18, 1954, before the birth of either Caroline, 6, or John Jr., 3.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the late President's brothers, and his widow were named executors and trustees.

Mrs. Kennedy is given an initial bequest of $25,000 and the will directs that after that bequest is made, the estate be divided into two equal shares.

One trust fund is to be set up for Mrs. Kennedy, another for the children.

Portions of the principal may be paid to the three primary beneficiaries. An amount not to exceed 10 per cent of the value at the start of any calendar year may be paid to Mrs. Kennedy. Up to 20 per cent of the value of their portion may be paid to the children.

The trust for the Kennedy children provides for them to assume control at the age of 21.

NIGHT TONGUE-BITING

Q. What causes a girl (age 22) to bite her tongue at night?

A. Tongue-biting is a form of habit activity. It often occurs at night and the person is not always aware of its occurrence. Treatment is rather unsatisfactory. However, an attempt should be made to determine factors which may be responsible for increased tension. If the tongue is frequently injured by the teeth, a dentist can devise a protective mouth-piece.

BREAST CANCER FAMILIES

Q. Three members of my immediate family have had breast cancer. I am 31 and have had bouts of cystic mastitis. Am I in for trouble later on?

A. Some doctors believe that the occurrence of an unusual number of cases of breast cancer within a family and the presence of breast masses increase the risk of developing breast cancer. You are obviously being attended by a physician for the cystic condition. Keep in touch with the doctor and go in for regular check-ups.

Answers appearing in these columns are of necessity brief and general and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all physicians. Remember—the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

Christmas Plays Given At Atwater

Several grades at Atwater Elementary School presented special Christmas programs in their respective classrooms last week prior to the holiday vacation.

The following is a brief rundown on each of the presentations.

Kindergarten — The Christmas program by Kindergarten students was given Thursday. In spite of the zero weather many parents were present. Santa Claus was guest of honor and everyone had an enjoyable time. Students from the third grade sang carols outside the classroom windows.

Grade One: The First Grade Christmas Program was a salute to the children of Latin America. The students sang Christmas Carols that are sung by the children of Latin America. Drums and shakers were used to accompany the songs. A Christmas greeting was wished in both English and Spanish.

Grade Three: The Third Grade program was based on American Christmas customs. It began with Debbie Redman telling the story of the beautiful Christmas poinsettia. Danny Graham introduced the third grade Santa Claus, Randy Young. Other speaking parts were Dennis Leader, Debbie Brian, Billy Anderson, Terri Griffith and Cynthia Palm. The entire class participated in singing Christmas carols and wished all the classes at Nicholas Drive a Merry Christmas by singing carols outside their classroom windows.

Fifth Grade: The Fifth Grade students presented Christmas folk music of Mexico as their part in the Christmas program. Children learned the customs of Mexico that are practiced during the Mexican Christmas festivities. In Mexico, the birth of Jesus is announced by fireworks, ringing of bells, and blowing of whistles. Perhaps the most popular Christmas festivity is the making and breaking of the pinata. The pinata is a huge paper covered container filled with sweets and toys. The children are blindfolded and attempt to break the pinata with long sticks. When someone finally breaks it, the children scramble to the floor to get the sweets and toys.

Grade Six: On Dec. 16 at 1:30 p. m. the Sixth Grade students joined all classes at Nicholas Drive to present the annual Christmas Program which was held in the multi-purpose room. The sixth grade students sang French Christmas carols. Speaking parts were held by Ann Guenther and Mark Nichols. All parents were invited to attend. The program closed with all present singing "Joy

"Yes," said the school teacher. "We'll have Christmas carols this year as usual. But I think a word of warning to you children is in order. We are singing the carols for no special reason, if anyone asks you I wouldn't have it get back to the Supreme Court that we are disobeying any law. Well, children, we'll begin with 'O Little Town of Bethlehem.'"

The children sing. Their voices, mingling juvenile sopranos and tenors, reach a pitch of youthful exaltation in the lines about the Everlasting Light shining in Bethlehem's dark streets. The teacher is a bit perturbed.

"Don't put so much into it, children," she says. "Mr. Justice Warren might think you were exalted by Faith. And, as you know, we can't have religious exercises in school. We could have time out for meditation, though. Maybe you could sing the carol silently to yourselves. . . . Well, anyway, let's try 'Away in the Manger, no crib for his bed.' But sing it as if it's just a song, something like 'Annie Laurie' or 'Old Man River.'"

So the children sing again. Their voices sound tender when they dwell on the plight of the Little Lord Jesus with a pillow. The teacher is worried again. "Children, children," she says. "You can't stress the word 'Lord' so fondly. Why, if Mr. Justice Warren were to hear you, he might think you were really getting it from me that Jesus is your Lord. . . . Well, we'll now try 'O Come, all Ye Faithful.'"

The children sing. They sound joyful and triumphant, even adoring, as they match the words with spirit.

This is really too much for the teacher. She looks over her shoulder apprehensively. "Well," she says, "I guess we've had enough of that. And you must remember, I've just given you the carols as an exercise. You are to treat this experience as a part of your history course. You know, there was, historically, such a thing as the Christian religion. Some of you may have read the Gospel According to Saint Luke. Well, there was a man named Luke. There was also a man named Matthew, and one named Mark and one named John. They were disciples of the Saviour — er, I mean the historical figure who was called Jesus. They wrote some accounts of his birth, life and death. It's all very interesting, as part of history.

"Well, as I believe Mr. Justice Warren's Court would have me tell you, there are other religions, too. All historically very interesting. You may have heard of Mohammed. He called his deity by the name of Allah. If I had only had time to think about these things in advance, instead of teaching you arithmetic and grammar, I would have found you some songs about Allah. Then we could have been really impartial. Maybe there are some good songs about Buddha, too, though I don't really know. I guess Teachers College at Columbia will have to start up some new courses to train teachers in all the religions. They could have a course in Comparative Carol Singing. But that wouldn't be methodology, would it? No, indeed, it would be a course in content, and they wouldn't have time for that."

By this time the children are becoming restive, even bored. The exaltation of the carols has evaporated. Outside the school they can see the Christmas lights going on in the streets. They are thinking of Christmas trees at home. They can hear "Adeste, Fidelis" chanted outside. They are waiting for the three o'clock bell to ring, so they can go out into a culture that will remind them of Santa Claus (whose first name means Saint), and the spirit of Christmas giving, and maybe going to church to hear about St. Luke's story of the Nativity. They can hardly wait to get away from the clutches of a school system that has declared the culture of the West off bounds, except as history, like the culture of Zen Buddhism or Zoroastrianism, or Mumbo Jumbo.

The Supreme Court has spoken. So far as school is concerned, Christmas is just part of a museum piece called the past.

LAFF-A-DAY

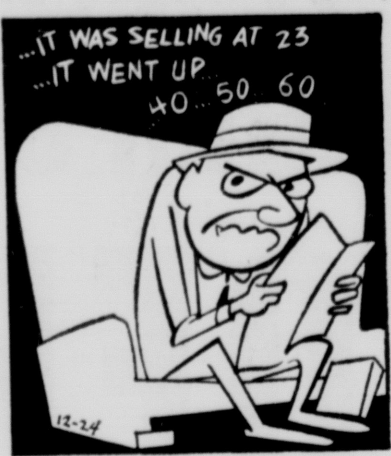

"Please gift-wrap it."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

TWO FLASHILY dressed individuals, obviously big-market operators, were discussing their transactions in voices loud enough to be heard from one end of the day.

"When I first looked into that stock it was selling at 23," lamented one. "I've watched it steadily go up to 40, then 50, then 60, and dammit, I never bought a share." "Think it's good for a still further rise?" asked the other. "I certainly do," asserted the first. "You mark my words. Before it's finished, that stock'll sell at a dollar!"

Two Irish lads from Boston were going into jungle warfare for the first time. The captain promised a silver dollar for every one of the enemy they dispatched. Pat lay down under a tree for a little rest while Mike kept watch.

Suddenly Mike cried, "They're coming!" "How many?" demanded Pat. "About fifty thousand," estimated Mike. "Glory be," exulted Pat reaching for his weapon. "Our fortune's made!"

Jerry Beatty has an apt definition for a situation where a tightwad squirms to avoid paying a check: a shell-out falter.

Hey, Kids! Santa's on His Way!

(EDITOR'S NOTE): "Will Santa Claus really come to our house?" That is the most anxious question in America today. It is answered in the following column, written for parents to read aloud to their children. Since its first appearance in 1948, it has become a scrapbook favorite in many homes.

By HAL BOYLE

NORTH POLE (AP) — He's off! Santa Claus is on his way at last:

The jolly old saint and his famous reindeer are zooming through the arctic skies right now, heading for the American border. He'll reach it tonight.

The Northern Lights switched on to a clear, steady green — the "go ahead" signal. And the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent Santa this message:

"We are clearing all air lanes in your path, old boy. There is no speed limit for you tonight. The sky is yours. Go as fast as you like. Good Luck."

And Santa needed that wide clear road in the sky, for his big red sleigh was piled so high with gifts it overflowed. It looked like a flying hayrack as it raced through the cold crisp air.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear," worried Santa, just before the takeoff. "I do hope none of the presents fall and bean some poor innocent rabbit down below. I believe this must be the heaviest load I've had in 20 years."

"What's he fretting about?" whispered Donner to Vixen. "He's only riding in the sleigh, we have to pull it."

Vixen laughed so hard the bells on her harness tinkled in merry music. And all the other reindeer laughed too.

Just then Mrs. Santa Claus came running out waving a long piece of paper.

"You almost forgot your list of good children," she said.

"Never mind," replied Santa. "I don't need it. This year I'm going to give a present to every little boy and girl, good or bad. The bad ones will feel sorry then, because they know they don't deserve a nice present. It'll make them try harder to be good next year."

"That isn't according to Hoyle," said Mrs. Claus, who likes to play bridge. "But it does make sense, you old sofie."

Santa stood up to crack his whip in the air—the signal to be off. But then he heard a small voice crying:

"Wait, Please wait."

It was Cluny, Santa's favorite little elf. The other elves gossiped about Cluny and said she was clumsy at making toys. But Santa knew it was only because she was so young. He liked her because she had a good heart.

"Here," said the tiny elf, holding up a small shiny figure. "What's this? What's this?" grumbled Santa. "You're too late. My pack is already loaded."

"It is only my present to the world," said Cluny. "I made it at night in my room—all by myself."

Santa took the little figure from her hands. It was a beautiful angel with butterfly wings and a robe of purest white. In her hand the angel held a small magic wand.

"It is the angel of peace," explained Cluny.

"Why Cluny!" said Santa. "This is better than all the other gifts put together. I'll see that your angel waves the wand for one day at least over every home in the land."

And he picked up Cluny and gave her a big whisker-tickly kiss on her cheek. Then he picked up his long whip again and cracked it sharply in the frosty air.

"Ho, ho, ho! Here we go!" he roared. "Ho, ho, ho! Here we go!"

The eight reindeer teaped forward and the big sleigh began sliding through the snow. Faster, faster, faster — and then they were off the ground and into the air.

Santa was on his way And tonight, if you go to bed, he will come to your house, wherever you are.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — interest rate juggling between sections of the nation and between competing savings institutions is bolstering the belief of those who look for general arming of interest after the traditional January lull.

Yields on savings are being raised now to 4.25 per cent or higher by some New York savings banks and some savings and loan associations in Florida. But in California, where the rates are still highest, some savings and loan groups say they'll cut back Jan. 1 from 5 per cent to .85 per cent. Most commercial banks are held by federal regulations to 4 per cent.

In New York much of the competition for savings is between different types of institutions. In Florida, and to some extent in New York, the competition is with California where the higher yields have been attracting funds from across the nation — funds which Florida would like to use in its own building program.

Predictions of generally rising interest rates when the new year is well under way are coming from at least two sources. Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board has told Congress that if the federal tax cut is passed and stimulates the economy as hoped for, increased business borrowing will push interest rates up.

January could see a lull in any movement toward tighter money and higher costs. Business borrowings in November and December to finance increased production and to carry larger inventories. In January these loans are normally repaid. The return flow of money into the market makes credit easier and reduces pressure on interest rates.

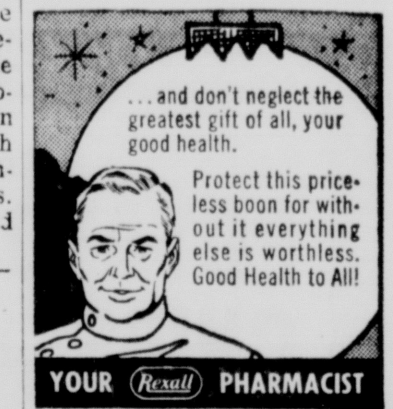

But if business activity, and construction demand continues high in coming months, the de-

The U. S. Savings & Loan League sees a tightening next year in the supply of funds available for mortgage loans. Since it also predicts continued demand for mortgage money, the league looks for the trend toward higher mortgage rates in some parts of the nation, which started late this year, to continue for several more months, and for more funds could tighten the market.

By the same token, if the economy turns down unexpectedly, the Federal Reserve's job would be to ease credit as a possible stimulant, rather than to keep it moderately high to fend off a runaway boom.

The board is also interested in keeping short-term rates fairly high to discourage an outflow to foreign money markets that would increase any threat to U. S. gold reserves.

Region against region, institution against institution — it could be an interesting year.

NEW YORK (AP)—With the debut Wednesday night of Allen Funt's "Tell It to the Camera" on CBS, network television launches a sad little second season of new shows. The big opening season is late September and early October.

Between now and Jan. 10, seven programs will make their debuts. All but one replace programs that failed to attract large audiences.

"Tell It to the Camera" substitutes for "Glynis," which provided unbelievably poor scripts for star Glynis Johns.

Next Monday, two new game shows move into the daytime line-ups of ABC and NBC. "The Object Is," with Dick Clark as host, replaces long-playing "Who Do You Trust?" on ABC. NBC's short-lived "People Will Talk" will be abandoned for another game show called "Let's Make a Deal."

ABC is trying to salvage something from the expensive rubble left by the abrupt departure of Saturday night's "Jerry Lewis Show"—the season's noisiest flop. It will premiere an hour-long variety show, "The Hollywood Palace," on Jan. 4 in the first hour of Lewis' time, a return the second hour to affiliated stations for local programming.

NBC's "Redigo" quietly slips into limbo after tonight's show, and next Tuesday the half hour will be filled by an evening version of "You Don't Say."

"That Was the Week That Was," a half-hour topical revue specializing in satire, slips into NBC's Friday night schedule on Jan. 10, taking over from the comedy series, "Harry's Girls."

CBS will present a quiz show called "Alumni Fun" on Sunday afternoons starting Jan. 4. This is designed to fill part of the big hole in the network schedule left by the departure of football. The show, originally seen last season on ABC, features alumni teams from various colleges competing for scholarships.

Land of Unrest, Little Peace Awaits Messenger of Peace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A messenger of peace journeys next week to a land which knows little peace, a land which still may be a primary source of anxiety for a war-weary world.

Pope Paul VI makes his pilgrimage to the Holy Land—sacred to Christians, Moslems and Jews—at a time when religious leaders around the world are preoccupied with thoughts of reconciliation.

But among people in the Holy Land there is no such spirit. Tides of hate, the backlash of wars, jealousies and man's insanity toward man have swept the area since World War II.

The Pope is held in honor by both Jew and Moslem, on either side of the storied Jordan River. His pilgrimage is made against a background of a Vatican move to absolve Jews of sole blame for the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

But many a Moslem Arab harboring smoldering hatred for Israel, will be prey to suspicion that the Israelis may benefit politically from the Pope's visit.

For a few days, the enemy which scourges the land of the Bible, the Koran and, the Torah will be cheered sufficiently to permit barriers at the borders to be lifted by both sides for the purposes of the visit.

Nonetheless, all who are connected with the pilgrimage will be keenly aware that it ventures into a sea of bitterness. Jordan, occupying part of what was Palestine 16 years ago, is home for resentful Arab enemies of world Zionism, the movement which brought Israel into being in May 1948.

The Holy Land's modern sickness is, in part, an aftermath of two world wars. During World War I, when the Germans' Turkish allies still ruled the Arab East, England turned to influential figures of world Jewry for help.

In return, Britain promised in the Balfour Declaration to help pave the way for realization of the dream of a Jewish national home.

After the Central Powers' defeat, Britain received the League of Nations mandate over Palestine. On the east side of the Jordan River, the British carved out an unlikely little desert kingdom and made the Emir Abdullah, a descendant of the Prophet Mohamed, its king. It was called Trans-Jordan.

Jews began a slow process of immigration into Palestine between wars. Then came Hitler in Germany, the defeat of the Nazis in World War II and a wave of sympathy for Jewish suffering at Hitler's hands. Jewish immigration into Palestine rose sharply.

As the time for surrender of the mandate neared, underground Jewish organizations like Haganah, Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern gang instituted a campaign of terror. Arabs left their villages by tens of thousands.

Tension was at white heat by November 1947, when the United Nations voted a resolution—with strong U.S. backing — to partition Palestine. Two states, Arab and Jewish, were to be linked in economic union. The Jews would get 56 per cent of Palestine, the Arabs 44 per cent less a Jerusalem area which was to be internationalized under U.N. administration.

The Arabs resisted partition, and when the mandate ran out in May 1948, Arab armies entered Palestine. On May 15, the state of Israel was proclaimed with David Ben-Gurion as head of the provisional government. The war that followed humiliated the Arabs. The Israelis wound up by the time of the 1949 armistice with much more than they would have had by partition. Jerusalem became a divided city.

King Abdullah, whose Trans-Jordan Arab Legion, British-trained and officered, was the most effective Arab fighting force, moved his troops into that part of Palestine not effectively occupied by the Jews.

Abdullah was assassinated in 1951. His son and successor, Talal, was packed away to a mental institution and in 1952 Abdullah's grandson, British-educated Hussein, at 17 mounted the uneasy throne. Hussein rode out many violent troubles. He fell heir, too, to a refugee population growing at the rate of 25,000 a year. By current estimate there are 850,000 refugees in Jordan.

Embittered, the refugees became easy prey for nationalist followers of Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser, who aimed to topple Hussein and called for his assassination as an imperialist tool.

There has been little relief from tension. Periodically it has flared into situations critical for the whole sensitive, oil-rich Middle East.

The crises were deep and dangerous—Suez in 1956 and the series of Arab explosions in 1958 which led to a landing of U.S. troops in Lebanon. In Iraq, revolutionists slaughtered young King Feisal, Hussein's cousin.

The world trembled on the brink of a new war.

If the crisis atmosphere has eased somewhat since 1959, this was not because of any less enmity of the Arabs for Israel or any lessening of Arab conflicts with Arabs. Dreaming of unity, the Arabs seem united only in their hatred of Israel.

The Arab East being what it is, a small spark could set Holy Land afire at any moment.

DEAR ABBY: My best friend and I work together. There was a good-looking policeman who used to talk to us on our break, and my girl friend fell in love with this man. He is married and has several children. He and his family are moving out of the city, and now my girl friend is planning to quit her job and try to find one where he is going. She says she realizes that he is not free to marry her, but she can't live without being near him. I am trying to talk her out of it but am not having very much luck. I hate to see her hurt. If I send you her address, will you write to her and tell her she is heading for trouble?

Pocket Watches In New Designs

By SUSAN BARDEN

The pocket watch largely neglected by Twentieth Century fashion is coming back into its own and along with it are fancy waistcoats revived from Edwardian days. The switch however is that the revival is a feminine affair this time around.

Vests and overblouses which are an important part of the casual look this season get an added touch of glamour with a watch chain extending from pocket to pocket.

The watches come in many versions. All of them are easy to read and guaranteed to run for 24 hours without winding. Some come in fine gold cases decorated with elaborate click covers. Others are in colored enamel cases with the watch face showing. Several are made with backs adorned with beautiful antique patterns.

There are also quite a few styles modern in design that feature backs with crystal windows to show the jeweled-ice movement.

ADDED GLAMOUR — This modern feminine pocket watch is thin and neat with novel stick markers. Gold fill forms the case which is about the size of a half dollar.

Attend Memorial

Service for President

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Grace and Jerry Raso, all of Commercial Point, attended the Community Memorial Service for the late President John F. Kennedy on Sunday afternoon at the Methodist Church in Jeffersonville.

The service was planned by the Rev. Robert B. St. Clair, a former minister in the Commercial Point area. He was assisted by other ministers of the Jeffersonville area.

The Commercial Point group visited the St. Clair family during the afternoon and watched a memorial program on TV at which President L. B. Johnson officiated.

Land of Unrest, Little Peace Awaits Messenger of Peace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A messenger of peace journeys next week to a land which knows little peace, a land which still may be a primary source of anxiety for a war-weary world.

Pope Paul VI makes his pilgrimage to the Holy Land—sacred to Christians, Moslems and Jews—at a time when religious leaders around the world are preoccupied with thoughts of reconciliation.

But among people in the Holy Land there is no such spirit. Tides of hate, the backwash of wars, jealousies and man's insanity toward man have swept the area since World War II.

The Pope is held in honor by both Jew and Moslem, on either side of the storied Jordan River. His pilgrimage is made against a background of a Vatican move to absolve Jews of sole blame for the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

But many a Moslem Arab harboring smoldering hatred for Israel, will be prey to suspicion that the Israelis may benefit politically from the Pope's visit.

For a few days, the enmity which scourges the land of the Bible, the Koran and the Torah will be cheered sufficiently to permit barriers at the borders to be lifted by both sides for the purposes of the visit.

Nonetheless, all who are connected with the pilgrimage will be keenly aware that it ventures into a sea of bitterness. Jordan, occupying part of what was Palestine 16 years ago, is home for resentful Arab enemies of world Zionism, the movement which brought Israel into being in May 1948.

The Holy Land's modern sickness is, in part, an aftermath of two world wars. During World War I, when the Germans' Turkish allies still ruled the Arab East, England turned to influential figures of world Jewry for help.

In return, Britain promised in the Balfour Declaration to help pave the way for realization of the dream of a Jewish national home.

After the Central Powers' defeat, Britain received the League of Nations mandate over Palestine. On the east side of the Jordan River, the British carved out an unlikely little desert kingdom and made the Emir Abdullah, a descendant of the Prophet Mohamed, its king. It was called Trans-Jordan.

Jews began a slow process of immigration into Palestine between wars. Then came Hitler in Germany, the defeat of the Nazis in World War II and a wave of sympathy for Jewish suffering at Hitler's hands. Jewish immigration into Palestine rose sharply.

As the time for surrender of the mandate neared, underground Jewish organizations like Haganah, Irgun Zval Leumi and the Stern gang instituted a campaign of terror. Arabs left their villages by tens of thousands.

Tension was at white heat by November 1947, when the United Nations voted a resolution—to partition Palestine. Two states, Arab and Jewish, were to be linked in economic union. The Jews would get 56 per cent of Palestine, the Arabs 44 per cent less a Jerusalem area which was to be internationalized under U.N. administration.

The Arabs resisted partition, and when the mandate ran out in May 1948, Arab armies entered Palestine. On May 15, the state of Israel was proclaimed with David Ben-Gurion as head of the provisional government. The war that followed humiliated the Arabs. The Israelis wound up by the time of the 1949 armistice with much more than they would have had by partition. Jerusalem became a divided city.

King Abdullah, whose Trans-Jordan Arab Legion, British-trained and officered, was the most effective Arab fighting force, moved his troops into that part of Palestine not effectively occupied by the Jews.

Abdullah was assassinated in 1951. His son and successor, Talal, was packed away to a mental institution and in 1952 Abdullah's grandson, British-educated Hussein, at 17 mounted the uneasy throne. Hussein rode out many violent troubles. He fell heir, too, to a refugee population growing at the rate of 25,000 a year. By current estimate there are 850,000 refugees in Jordan.

Embittered, the refugees became easy prey for nationalist followers of Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser, who aimed to topple Hussein and called for his assassination as an imperialist tool.

There has been little relief from tension. Periodically it has flared into situations critical for the whole sensitive, oil-rich Middle East.

The crises were deep and dangerous—Suez in 1956 and the series of Arab explosions in 1958 which led to a landing of U.S. troops in Lebanon. In Iraq, revolutionists slaughtered young King Feisal, Hussein's cousin.

The world trembled on the brink of a new war.

If the crisis atmosphere has eased somewhat since 1959, this was not because of any less enmity of the Arabs for Israel or any lessening of Arab conflicts with Arabs. Dreaming of unity, the Arabs seem united only in their hatred of Israel.

The Arab East being what it is, a small spark could set Holy Land afire at any moment.

Holiday Tourney's Highlight Week's Basketball Action

A pair of high school holiday tournament highlight basketball action in the Pickaway County area for the coming week. All county schools will see action.

The four Westfall District schools will compete in a special event at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum Saturday and Monday. A tourney at Centralia includes the host school, Logan Elm, Laurelville and Huntington.

Teays Valley, although not slated for action in a tourney, will travel to Greenfield McClain for a tilt.

Jackson meets Monroe at 7 p. m. Saturday and Williamsport clashes with Darby at 8:30 p. m. to open the Westfall tourney.

Williamsport High School will be favored in the event. The Deers already have defeated the other three schools in the event. They downed Darby 84-46 in the second game of the season, posted a 108-61 decision over Monroe and defeated Jackson 81-57.

However, the Deers played without the services of ace center Larry Beard at Laurelville Friday. Beard has a troublesome knee, according to coach Glen Chester and has been sidelined indefinitely by his doctor.

THE DEERS are hoping he will be ready for action Saturday. But even without him they have good balance in the scoring column with Rick Fenstermaker, Bruce Willis, Nick Williams and Neil Coleman in the lineup.

The tourney will pit the county's leading scorers. Monroe's Tom Seeley is pacing total scoring in the county with 186 points.

Representing Darby is the high scoring duo of Danny Bowen with a 179-point total and Dave Rowland with 163. Fenstermaker and Beard have 173 and 153 markers respectively.

Jackson, although they have no cagers seriously contending for top scoring honors, features a balanced attack with five cagers capable of scoring in double figures.

Jackson and Williamsport have the best records. The Deers are 7-2 for the season while the Wildcats are 6-2.

The tourney was originally slated at Jackson. But it was felt by the coaches that the capacity of the Jackson gym would limit attendance.

AT CENTRALIA, Thursday and Friday, the host school would have to be considered the favorite. They have only two losses, both at the hands of a powerful, undefeated Southeastern quintet.

The Bulldogs also own a pair of wins over Huntington and defeated Logan Elm in an earlier tilt. The tourney is a top drawing card. Centralia is the defending champion.

Logan Elm and Huntington meet in the opener, scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m. Thursday. The second tilt will pit Laurelville and Centralia and is expected to get under way about 8 p. m.

The Teays Valley Vikings will be attempting to extend their win streak to six in a row when they travel to Greenfield Friday. The Vikings, although capable of scoring from all areas of the floor — their five starters are all averaging in the double figure column — will be giving the host school.

The Plains of Mt. Sterling and Amanda Clearcreek are idle until school resumes, as is Circleville High School.

Team Finds New Way To Lose Game

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—McAuley High School of Joplin found a new way to lose a basketball game Monday night.

Trying for its second victory in 10 games, McAuley had a 71-69 lead over St. Agnes of Springfield and possession of the ball out of bounds with only one second left.

Instead of passing it directly to a teammate, the McAuley player flung the ball high in the air in elation over the certain triumph. The buzzer sounded before the ball hit the floor.

Officials said the ball hit a rafter.

The clock was re-set at one second. The ball was given to St. Agnes out of bounds. The throw-in to 6-foot-4 Larry Mueller was batted into the basket and the score was tied 71-all as the buzzer sounded.

In the overtime, fouls reduced McAuley to four players and St. Agnes won 78-76.

Ace from Baylor Signs with Oilers

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Don Trull, a pass-happy quarterback from Baylor, will do his throwing next year for Houston of the American Football League.

But neither Trull nor the Oilers will even hint at the salary bonus and terms of their contract—apparently one of the biggest in a series of skyrocketing pro pacts.

The Oilers out-talked the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League for Trull's services. Both clubs wanted the two-time national collegiate passign leader so badly that each drafted him as a future in 1962.

Bobby Klaus, rookie second baseman for the Cincinnati Reds, is the younger brother of Billy Klaus, former major league infielder.

'Daddy, Is Y. A. Tittle As Old as Santa Claus?'

CHICAGO (AP)—"Daddy, is Tittle as old as Santa Claus?" "Ha, ha. You ask the darndest questions, Junior."

"But, daddy, I heard you say at our Christmas party that old man Tittle could beat the Chicago Bears Sunday. If he is as old as Santa Claus, how can he do something like that?"

"I didn't mean Tittle—we all call him Yat—can do it alone. Junior. I was trying to show that he is Santa Claus of the New York Giants."

"He hasn't got whiskers, Junior. In fact he is bald. And he hasn't a round little belly that shakes like a bowl full of jelly. But sometimes he comes down the chimney with a sack full of touchdowns."

"Daddy, I don't know what..."

"Get up here on my knee Junior, and let me explain. Now, we know that Santa Claus has quite an arm. He can crack that whip and send Donder, Dasher, Dancer and Blitzen running."

"Tittle also has an arm like that. We fellows who know football like to say he has a hot hand—just like that fast-draw cowboy you watch on TV."

"Well, he throws the ball. Thirty-six times that he has thrown it this season, it has gone for a touchdown. And nine times a lanky guy called Det Shofner, who has the build of those gunslingers you watch, has caught the ball and scored a touchdown."

"Del is sort of like Santa's Rudolph, the rednosed reindeer who guides his sleigh. And he is good at catching what we call bombs—long passes for touchdowns."

"But, daddy, can't anybody stop Santa Tittle from doing all that?"

"Well, Junior, that's the big question the Bears must face. Now, the Bears can put a big rush on the old man—you know, charge at him when he is trying to throw, like a stampede. We call it red-dog, like the name of that saloon."

"But, Santa Tittle usually is protected by his partners who won't let the other guys get to him. If they do get to him, he is very slippery—like that fish that got away from us last summer."

"Let's say, daddy, that Santa Tittle does get a chance to throw. Does he always throw to the right guy?"

"Ha, ha. That's a good question, Junior. The Bears have a gang to surround the guys that Santa Tittle is trying to hit."

"They are guys like Roosevelt Taylor, Richie Pettibon, Benny McRae and Davey Whitsett. These four have stolen 29 passes that were supposed to go to other guys this season."

"But daddy you still haven't told me if Mr. Tittle is as old as Santa Claus."

"I don't think so Junior. But I believe Papa Bear George Halas might be. But that's another story."

"Papa Bear is waiting for the best Christmas present of all. That would be the National Football League championship sonny."

Diplomats Answer Grassroots Questions

BETHANY, W.Va. (AP)—The three touring U.S. diplomats, here under a new State Department program, had much in common with the oldtime carnival wrestlers who took on all challengers.

Their visit to Bethany College—850 students—was typical of the department's efforts to tell its story in the smaller cities and towns.

One or more of the experts attended every meeting or class available, made a short speech and threw the floor open for questions.

What about Viet Nam? Cuba? Those wheat deals with Russia? Why don't the Jews and Arabs settle the disputes?

What happens to the State Department if Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., wins the presidency? Answer: 'Every new administration inevitably reorganizes the State Department.' Presumably President Johnson will, too eventually.

And, wherever they go, they get this one: Why don't we stop pouring our money down rat-holes?

For years the department has attempted to fill requests for speakers, but these usually came from larger cities.

Last summer a new program—Community Meetings on Foreign Policy—was started, with Charlotte Hubbard in charge of lining up the tours to smaller towns and cities.

The first foray was into the Middle West, to such spots as Ogallala, Neb., and Rapid City, S.D. The second went to New England, and included St. Joseph, Vt., and Franconia, N.H.

The third tour was to the Ohio Valley area.

The men on this trip had never seen each other until they met in the Pittsburgh airport to drive to Wheeling.

They made up a diversified cast:

Eugene V. McAuliffe, 45, directs Office of Public Services in the Bureau of Public Affairs. Dark, crewcut a native of Boston. Has spent all his adult life in the Foreign Service—France, Germany, Mexico.

Byron Laddberg Johnson, 40, on staff of Agency for International Development. Combination of bureaucrat college professor, economist—Ph.D. University of Wisconsin—church worker, author, lawmaker and first rate story teller. Served one term in Congress from Colorado.

Talcott W. Seelye, 41, Middle Eastern affairs expert. Born there, appropriately, while his father was teaching in Beirut, Lebanon. Tall, skinny at 6-feet-3 and 165, about what he weighed when he played basketball at Amherst.

H. Earle Russell, Jr., 40, who subbed for Seelye the last two days. In charge of Lebanon-Israel affairs. Literally born into the Foreign Service. Father was stationed in Rome at the time. Shy type. Suffers agonies when he is called on to speak.

None of these fits, or ever comes close to, our traditional picture of the clipped, stuffy diplomat. All are casually informal. Seelye occasionally wears slacks and a sports jacket, Johnson a sweater.

Acting as den mother for her down-to-earth troop, Mrs. Hubbard tries to make sure every one gets where he is supposed to be. She worries constantly especially because experts hate to answer simple questions simply.

"You talked too long," Mrs. Hubbard keeps saying accusingly.

In five crowded days the State Department men appeared before Rotary Clubs, Chambers of Commerce, high school assemblies, forums, radio and television microphones, and students at Bethany College, Wheeling College and the College of Steubenville, Ohio.

Farm Bureau Panel Mapping Plans for Membership Drive

Members of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau Membership Growth Committee met Monday afternoon at the FB Home to map plans for the 1964 Membership Drive, scheduled to kick-off on Feb. 3, and to select township captains.

John Stevenson, committee chairman, opened the session by reviewing the membership calendar which included: Statewide Captains Rally, Dec. 30; County Captains Meeting, Jan. 13; Worker Training Meetings, Jan. 27-31; Kick-off, Feb. 3, and Victory Party, Feb. 13.

The general membership plan was reviewed with particular emphasis placed on the Statewide Captains Rally and the County Captains Meeting. Township Captains will be familiarized with the 1964 drive plan and will select their township workers on Jan. 13.

The committee disclosed that the county has been divided into three districts. Each contains approximately 195 members. Growth Committee members are serving as district captains.

Ed Johnson, Tri-County organization director, explained the point system by which workers can receive credit toward numerous prizes. "For the first time in history of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau we are giving credit for correspondence to the mail campaign," he said.

Each worker will receive five points for each one per cent of mail return in a township. During the drive each will receive five points for renewing a member and will receive 15 for each new member.

Competition is scheduled in three categories. The losing two districts will feed the winning district at the Victory Party on Feb. 13.

The township showing the most gain over 1963 will win a trip and the three high individuals will receive prizes.

Persons selected for the 1964 Membership Growth Committee are: John Stevenson, chairman, William Richards, Dick Tootle, Hoyt Martin, Hal Richard, Russell Wadelich, Loring Leist, Dick Hansen and Link Brown.

He was arraigned before Federal Judge Anthony P. Augelli, who set bail at $5,000, ordered De Angelis to give up his passport and restricted him to travel in New Jersey and New York State.

The restrictions of De Angelis' travel was requested by U.S. Atty. David M. Satz said an investigation into all phases of the case was continuing before the federal grand jury.

Food Oils Chief Is Hit By Indictment

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Anthony De Angelis, president of the bankrupt Allied Crude Vegetable Oil and Refining Corp., was indicted by a federal grand jury here on charges of interstate transportation of nearly $40-million of forged warehouse receipts.

Pope Paul Gives Yule Message

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI, in his first Christmas message to the world, said last night his Holy Land pilgrimage would be a journey of offering, search, hope and prayer for peace and Christian unity.

The 66-year-old Roman Catholic ruler also called on nations to seek a true peace through the "abolition, or at least...mitigation" of the arms race, nationalistic pride, and lack of confidence in such organizations as the United Nations. He also advocated negotiation between nations.

But the main emphasis in his speech, less than two weeks before his historic pilgrimage to the Holy Land, was that unprecedented trip.

Obviously referring to some criticism among Arab circles that his trip would be political and constitute Vatican recognition of Israel, he said:

"Once again we declare clearly that the nature and purposes of our pilgrimage are solely religious."

He added that his journey would be one of "search for all those who are, for us, sons and brothers in Christ."

"And our heart will reach out also to those outside the fold of Christ, and our good intentions will embrace all the peoples of the earth, those far and near, with sentiments of respect and of love, wishing them happiness and peace."

"It will thus be a journey of prayer, made with humility and with love. In our heart will be present the whole world; no one will be forgotten."

Pope Paul indicated his willingness to meet Arab and Jew, Catholic Christian and non-
